Qualitative feedback

Has the training program covered what you expected? If partly or no, why?

What topic/issue has been the most important for you?

- The creative exercises from day 1. Safety vs. Risk discussion and learning styles.
- Creative use of props, identifying my group member types. The power of the intention of group work and trying to understand the focal conflict model.
- The first day – hands on activities e.g. name game. Discussion around safety and risk.
- The active use of new activities.
- The creative tools shared with us.

What topic/ issue has been the least important for you?

- Running the group session. It was too confronting and I couldn't learn much because I was so nervous.
- Strategic questions and story-telling.
- Iceberg concept – already knew it.

What impact will this training have on your work?

- It's given me an insight into myself and my work and a validation that I don't get from my organisation.
- Lots thanks. This was a great day and I learned many new techniques.
- Greatly impact the current group we run but also has me thinking what other groups we can run.
- Informed me of the group process and how to add to the exciting possibilities of group work. Andrew's belief in the power of group work.
- Will certainly put many of the activities into practice, be more creative in the warm-up activities and be more mindful of safety/risk aspect of the group.

Any other comments about the training course

- I really admire Andrew's presence and delivery of the course.
- Full of tools and thought. Thank you for a fabulous day.
- Last session is confronting.
- Well organised creative, welcoming, challenging, informative, balanced use of presentation to really powerful participation, which brought home the skills presented.
